

THE 2010 ALBERT C. MUSE PRIZE IN OPHTHALMOLOGY

Awarded by the Eye & Ear Foundation of Pittsburgh

CALL FOR NOMINATIONS

We seek nominations for individuals who have made extraordinary contributions to the field of ophthalmology.

The Albert C. Muse Prize was established in 2001 by the Eye & Ear Foundation of Pittsburgh to honor world leaders in the fields of ophthalmology and otolaryngology. The Eye & Ear Foundation's mission is to support the Departments of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology at the University of Pittsburgh, its School of Medicine and the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center.

The Muse Prize alternates annually between Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology, carries a cash award of $5,000, and recognizes individuals who have made significant, progressive contributions to science and medicine in these specialties.

Presentation of the award will take place in the fall of 2010. The prize is named for Albert C. Muse, who has served the Eye & Ear Institute and Foundation for more than three decades and has generously supported research into diseases affecting the eye, ear, nose and throat. A past chairman of the Foundation, Mr. Muse is currently vice chairman.

ELIGIBILITY:

The 2010 Albert C. Muse Prize in Ophthalmology is open to all individuals who have made extraordinary contributions to ophthalmology.

There is no geographical restriction on candidates. Each nomination will be reviewed by a select panel of judges including ophthalmologists from the UPMC Department of Ophthalmology, a national leader in ophthalmology research and clinical innovation.
